MEMORANDUM FOR VICE ADMIRAL TURNER

Subj: Faculty and Staff Colloquium

1. The Faculty and Staff Colloquium (or President's Hour) is scheduled to be held at the Main "O" Club in the Continental Room at 1530, Wednesday 28 November.

2. I recommend you start the meeting off with a brief summary of your recent meetings off-campus (such as Pacem en Teris, Chicago, Travemunde) followed by your reactions of progress thus far in the academic year:

a. You might want to touch on the reaction you got to our examination procedures as evinced during the last President's Hour with the College of Naval Command and Staff Students. The students seemed to have some mistrust of the equity in grading students ~~high~~ who had the facility for regurgitating facts. The point to be made to the faculty, it seems to me, is that the faculty has the responsibility of explaining to the students how they expect to judge the learning experience of the students through examinations. Each faculty member will have his own method for presenting his case, and perhaps there are even some that may not be able to do it, but still it is important to the students to know that they are here to develop their reasoning process rather than memorizing facts. You might even tie in the Harvard Reading Test by relating the difference between "student X" who was able to remember vast amounts of detailed statistical information as opposed to "student Y" who was able to grasp the concepts of the problem.

b. I think it would be useful to express your appreciation to the Faculty and Staff for their support--but not overdo it.

Yes
c. You might recognize any new Faculty/Staff, such as Bill Ramsey. If you want to do this I will have someone with his eyes peeled to provide you with a list of our new additions who are in the meeting.

3. The rest of the program should be devoted, I believe, to an exchange between you and other members of the Faculty and Staff.

Very Respectfully,

C.S. WILLIAMS, JR.

Dean of Academics
